Avoid the 12 Scams of the Holidays!

Keep the season full of cheer, make sure you don't pick up any unwanted gifts when shopping online this year.

1. You've Got Mail!

Think twice before clicking links in shipping notification emails, and always verify the shipping company before giving out your personal information.

2. Deceptive Advertising

Beware of deals that are too good to be true as they could steal your personal information and ruin your holiday cheer.

3. Chilling Charities

'Tis the season to donate, but be wary of fake charities. Do your research and double check the site URL.

4. Buyer Beware

Check your credit card statements to make sure you don't have any unwanted charges as a result of a point-of-sale breach.

5. iScams

Today, smartphones not only act as a phone, but also a credit card, house key, camera and more. Malware can access your device via apps, so do your research and stick to official app stores to download.

6. Getting Carded

Avoid the unwanted gift of malware by verifying that e-cards are from someone you know and are from a trustworthy site.

7. Holiday Travel Scams

Avoid fake online deal links offering low price airfare or hotel rooms that could be a trap; think before you click.

8. Bank Robocall Scam

Be suspicious of phone calls from people who claim your computer is infected and request your personal information to fix it.

9. ATM Skimming

Need cash in a hurry? Beware of using automated teller machines (ATMs); a skimmer device designed to steal data off the card may be installed. Look carefully at the ATM and cover the keypad when entering your PIN.

10. Year in Review Traps

While a "Year in Review" sounds entertaining to read, clicking on these links could infect your devices.

11. BYO...Device

With the hustle and bustle of the season, smartphones could easily be lost or stolen in the shuffle. Don't leave your smartphone unattended during the hectic holiday season as it could give hackers access to your personal and work information.

12. Bad USB Blues

Be wary of free USB drives that are often used as giveaways. This method is an easy way for hackers to spread malware.
